REGENERATION

Birmingham Council's Big City Plan is a 20-year masterplan to rejuvenate the city centre. Transport infrastructure is also undergoing historic levels of investment. Here are the highlights:

HIGH SPEED 2 (HS2)

When completed in 2032, HS2 will bring London within 49 minutes and cut journey times to Edinburgh, Newcastle and Manchester. The city is home to HS2's construction headquarters, so between now and project completion in 2032, over 1,500 jobs will be created in the city. The project is also stimulating local regeneration around the future station and is expected to deliver a GBP1.3 billion economic boost.

BRINDLEY PLACE

Brindley Place is a groundbreaking mixed-use canalside development initiated in the 1990s which transformed Birmingham's business and leisure offering. The scheme delivered over 1.2 million square feet of grade A office space which today accommodates over 8,500 employees and corporations including Deloitte, Deutsche Bank and RBS. Brindley Place's premium dining and leisure offering attracts over 10,000 visitors every day.

ARENA CENTRAL

A Special Enterprise Zone, Arena Central will deliver a 1.2 million square foot mixed-use destination in the heart of the city centre. From 2018 the site will also house HSBC's UK business and personal banking services – including up to 1,000 staff.

SUPPLY

Growing confidence and a concerted effort from major land-owner Birmingham Council, is spurring a surge in construction activity across the city. Despite this, housing supply across Birmingham will struggle to meet soaring demand for many years ahead.

- Birmingham needs 30,000 new homes by 2031
- To meet growth ambitions, the Council's Big City Plan is targeting to build a minimum of 5,000 new city-centre homes between 2011-2020
- Confidence continues to rise, with more than 2,300 units to be delivered over the next three years. Ten new developments started on site in 2016 – up from only one in 2015
- Development activity peaked in 2008, with 1,983 units delivered

DEMAND

Birmingham is home to over 1.1 million people, a figure forecast to rise by 12.2% between 2012 and 2032. This influx is driven by employment opportunities and the lifestyle on offer – it is estimated that more than 6,000 people left London for Birmingham in 2015.

- Over 4,200 new households in Birmingham by 2021
- Young professional demographic driving demand for city centre living
- Home to over 75,000 companies, including 1,190 international firms
- Over 50,000 new city centre jobs to be created by 2030
- 37% increase in new business start-ups between 2011 and 2015

SALES MARKET

Birmingham property prices have seen steady appreciation for over a decade, and growth is on the cusp of accelerating. There is plenty of room for further uplift with prime city centre developments still relatively affordable compared to other major cities.

- 3.6% annual capital growth in 2014 which accelerated to 7.94% in the 12 months to February 2017
- House price growth of 21.7% forecast between 2017-2021
- The average price for 1 and 2-beds in the prime city centre is GBP172,500 and GBP250,000 respectively

RENTAL MARKET

Rents are climbing across Birmingham, driven by the rising popularity of city centre living, unprecedented population growth and a shortage of rental stock to meet this demand. The average rent for a 1-bedroom city centre apartment is GBP700, with 2-beds receiving GBP900.

- High demand for rental accommodation saw average rents increase by 3.2% in 2016
- Prime housing rents rose by 4.9% during 2016
- Rental growth of 17.6% is forecast between 2017 and 2021
- Private renting grew by 5% between 2001-2011 and continues to grow in popularity
